Planting Season Is Here!

Just like that planting season is underway! Around here we have both the corn and bean planters running, the sprayers are out in full force, and seed has been going out the doors.

Let us help you have a successful year, starting with choosing the right seed, optimizing planting rates, and protecting your crops from pests and disease.

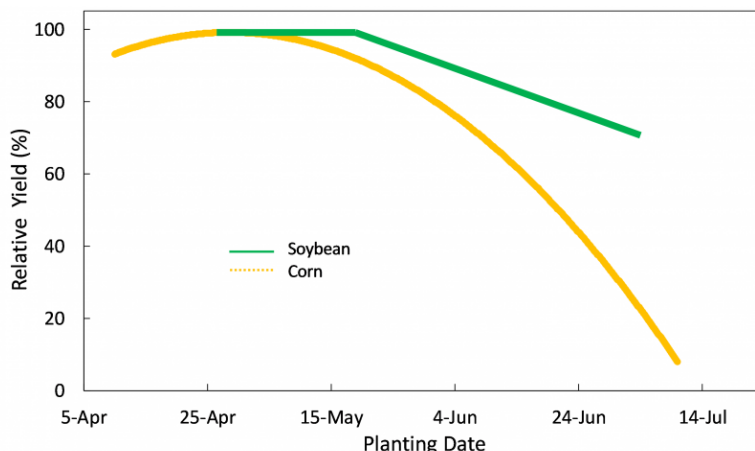

Farm Safety

It's easy to get caught up in the hustle and bustle on the farm, but remember to follow safety guidelines to protect yourself and others. Remember, it's better to be safe than sorry.

- Conduct regular equipment checks and maintenance
- Be aware of surroundings - people, powerlines, ditches, etc.
- Handle chemicals and fertilizers properly
- Take care of yourself - mentally and physically

Plant Date vs. Yield Potential

We are in the prime time of the planting window for top yield potential until mid-May. If field conditions are right, go ahead and plant with confidence!

Scout Early and Often

Crop scouting through the season enables you to make effective, timely management decisions to keep your crops healthy.

Scout early to notice the first signs of an issue and be proactive. Scout often as crop conditions can change quickly. It is recommended to scout fields weekly. If you have any questions about what you see, reach out to us.
